

Bill Kalpouzanis is Alpha Bank London's new Chief Operating Officer (COO)

We are thrilled to welcome Bill Kalpouzanis as Alpha Bank London's new Chief Operating Officer (COO), starting January 2025, subject to regulatory approvals.

Relocating from Sydney, Australia, Bill brings a distinguished international career in financial services leadership. Bill held the role of COO at the Bank of Sydney and most recently, he served as Chief Customer Success Officer at Liberty IT

Consulting Group, a leading digital transformation specialist in the financial sector.

Bill's connection with Alpha Bank Group is not new – he previously led Operations & Transformation as Programme Director in Athens. His deep understanding of technological innovation and operational excellence positions him perfectly to drive our strategic vision forward.

Commenting on Bill's appointment, Alpha Bank London's CEO Greg Ellison mentioned: 'We are delighted that Bill is joining us as Alpha Bank London begins to implement our new strategic plan. Technology and innovation are at the centre of our plans and Bill's expertise will make a significant contribution to our journey. We will be announcing further senior hires soon. It is going to be an exciting year ahead at ABL.'

We look forward to the expertise and vision Bill will bring to our team."

